DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Mar-Rock Farm is located at the end of a long private lane which extends in a southerly direction from Poffenberger Road south of Funkstown in Washington County, Maryland. The house and barn are situated on a bluff above the Antietam Creek on its east side and face south.

The house is a two story, three bay brick structure resting on low fieldstone foundations. A two story, two bay ell with a double porch along its west wall extends to the rear or north. The entire structure has been painted white. Bricks at the front elevation are laid in Flemish bond while common bonding was used at the other walls. Flat arches are present above the windows. Another notable feature of the masonry is the wall finishing at the eaves consisting of diagonally projecting bricks.

Openings appear to have been placed symmetrically in the front elevation. Windows have narrow frames finished with a bead at the inside edge which hold nine over six light double hung sashes. Several first story windows retain pairs of three panel shutters. Hinge pins for second story shutters remain in upper level window frames. The main entrance is located in the center bay of the front elevation. The door is hung beneath a transom and has had glass installed in two of its six panels. A modern porch extends across the front wall. Other entrances are located on the porches at the west elevation of the ell. The first story porch there has been enclosed with glass and concrete block.

The roof is sheathed with modern asphalt shingles and extends beyond the end walls. A brick chimney is located inside the west end wall. A modern concrete block flue has been added outside the east end wall and a new brick flue extends from inside the north end wall.

East of the house is a gambrel roofed dairy barn as well as other agricultural buildings. They appear to be in good condition. The farm contains 55.53 acres.
